

QUEEN OF MONTENEGRO DEPOSED

Queen Milena of Montenegro has been deposed as the result of a coup by M. Peamenatz, an ex-premier, and twenty armed men, who seized the seat of the present government and issued a decree stating that the queen was an illegal ruler. He then addressed the people, declaring himself prime minister and regent.

New Styles in Watch Chains

Don't overlook the growing custom among well dressed men of wearing several different styles of watch chains. A plain chain of strong construction for everyday business wear, a more delicate, unobtrusive, but often more fancy chain for wear with formal dress, and for use in summer when the waistcoat is discarded, or with sports clothes, the belt chain is coming in again, and coming in strong.

VAUDEVILLE AND PICTURES AT THE T. D. & L.

An attraction extraordinary is the headliner of the fine program offered by the T. D. and L. Theatre today and tomorrow. It is Lopez' Oriental Jazz Band—an orchestra of luxe that in vaudeville circles is the talk from coast to coast. Don't miss them! They furnish a whole show in themselves and are unlike any other act of its kind found in the regular run of vaudeville. In addition to this Jazz Orchestra the Paramount film, "Spanish Jade," with David Powell and Ann Forest—a most unusual and interesting drama and the latest Lloyd Ham Hamilton comedy, "The Speeder," are other attractions that go to make up "some show," as Ralph Allan puts it. It offers diversification—snappy, full o' pep and wholly entertaining.

Water and Power for Discussion Tonight

It is expected that a large number of voters and others interested will be present at the High School Auditorium this evening—at 8—to hear the debate on the proposed Amendment No. 19, known as the water and power act. Judge John A. Burgh of Los Angeles will uphold the affirmative, while Mr. Louis D'Elia, an attorney of Los Angeles, will speak against the act. Both are excellent speakers and this will be an unusual opportunity for the voters and others interested in this important question to hear both sides ably represented. Excellent music will be furnished and Mr. Ray Morrow, assistant city attorney, will preside. The program has been arranged by the Business Men's Bible Class of the First M. E. Church and it is expected that the attendance will be large.

COUNCIL PASSES ON NUMEROUS QUESTIONS

Bids were opened for the improvement of Kenneth road, Sonoma to the western city limits, and referred to the city engineer for checking and report.

Attorney McBride appeared before the board in behalf of Mrs. Moberly asking that if Garfield avenue was extended west from San Fernando road, it be run on the line of the present part of Garfield and not jog about 150 feet north of that line as proposed by L. H. Wilson, who recently purchased a large piece of property in that section. It was decided that nothing should be done in the way of deciding on a line for the proposed extension of Garfield without giving all parties a chance to be heard in the matter.

Attorney G. H. King appeared before the board in behalf of several cesspool contractors, asking that certain changes be made in the proposed amendment to the present cesspool ordinance.

It was decided to put both the concrete and the brick cesspools on the same basis by requiring all cesspools to be 3 feet 8 inches in interior width and 18 feet deep. An amendment was adopted granting the concrete cesspool men the right to construct cesspools, the interior diameter of 3 feet 8 inches and at least 16 feet deep, and the city attorney was instructed to prepare an amendment to the cesspool ordinance, allowing the brick cesspool men to construct cesspools not less than 3 feet 8 inches in width and 16 feet in depth.

After considerable discussion it was decided to grant the application of John J. Graf, to construct an apartment house on Elk, just west of Brand boulevard. Mr. Graf stated that he expects to put a building to cost about $60,000 on this lot. There was a petition of 52 per cent of property owners on the street favoring this 5-foot set-back and a protest against granting it of 48 per cent.

Mrs. Emma Schmidt, 127 South Everett street, was granted a permit to conduct a children's home on her property.

Mrs. A. B. Alley of 520 West California, was granted a similar permit.

Mrs. Villa Shaw, 657 West Milford was granted a permit to conduct a home for the aged.

B. P. Music, 362 South Verdugo, was granted a permit to sell milk. The Granite Builders were granted a refund of $6.30 on a building that was not constructed.

A resolution was adopted prohibiting any subdivision in Glendale, in the future, having lots less than 50 feet wide, except in unusual instances or in the business district.

An application was made to have the district at Verdugo and Maple and Rock Glen and Maple as a commercial district, and the city attorney was instructed to take the necessary legal steps to accomplish this result.

The following ordinances were adopted:

An ordinance abandoning proceedings for the opening and widening of Harvard street.

An ordinance abandoning proceedings for the opening and widening of Monterey road.

Ordinance establishing grade and naming a portion of Elm, Raymond, Garfield and Adams.

Ordinance establishing a grade and naming a portion of Sycamore Canyon road and Acacia avenue.

Assistant City Attorney Ray Morrow was granted a payment of $20 for legal services in the case of the city of Glendale against G. W. Hanger for violation of the dog ordinance.

The following resolutions were adopted:

A resolution ordering work on Doran, Columbus and San Fernando road.

A resolution of intention for vacating a 7-foot strip on Kenneth road, Pacific avenue west.

A resolution of intention for the improvement of Adams street.

A resolution adopting maps, plans and diagrams in the office of the city engineer.

The following ordinances were introduced and declared read for the first time:

An ordinance for the opening and widening of Pioneer drive and Chester street.

An ordinance for the opening and widening of Harvard street.

An ordinance for the opening and widening of Fifth street.

STEARNS WEDDING TOUR CLOSSES IN CITY

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Porter Stearns, who left Glendale about five months ago on their wedding trip, returned Tuesday, after a very wonderful tour of the United States.

They left Glendale in June, first going to El Paso, and San Antonio, Texas, where they visited "The Alamo." The next stop was Shawnee, Oklahoma, Mr. Stearns' old home, where he was mayor for 12 years. They gave a very warm reception here and it is stated that Mr. Stearns was the first republican mayor elected by democrats.

Their next visit was at Kansas City, Mo., and from there they journeyed to Chicago and on to Detroit, Toronto, Canada, was the next stop, from where they took a boat to Niagara Falls, where they spent two days. They went back to Toronto and then on to Montreal. Altogether they covered 600 miles by boat on the lakes and rivers. They visited the Thousand Islands on the St. Lawrence river and took another boat and shot the rapids. From Montreal they journeyed to Bath, Maine, where they spent two months. Mr. Stearns' mother lives here and she accompanied them on many of their motor trips.

In Maine they went up into the woods in the northern part and camped along the Moose river, which is 25 miles long and 8 miles wide. Mr. Stearns' brother had a beautiful cabin along the shore and they stayed there for two weeks, enjoying fishing and hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. Stearns then went to Hebron, Maine, and on to Pine Cove Lodge on Stearns' lake, where they camped out. They visited the old homestead of the Stearns in Maine, where Mr. Stearns' great grandfather moved in 1774. There were paths there that neither the snow of winter nor the rains of summer had obliterated.

The White mountains of New Hampshire were visited next, and from there they went to Portland, Maine, and Old Orchard. At Portland, they visited the old home of Longfellow and from there they journeyed to Boston and took all the interesting historic places.

Now York was their next stop, then on to Philadelphia and Baltimore and thence to Washington, D. C., where they had a most wonderful time. Secretary of the Navy Denby is an old schoolmate of Mr. Stearns and he was very glad to see them. They renewed old school days. They next stopped at Harrisburg, Pa., and then went to Pittsburgh and then to Columbus, Ohio.

There they visited relatives, who also visited to Marion, Ohio, where they visited President Harding's old home, which he has leased to a cousin of Mr. Stearns. They enjoyed going through the wonderful library.

Points in Indiana and Illinois were also visited and on the return west they stopped in Kansas City with friends, in Manitou and Colorado Springs, Montrose, and the famous Marshall Pass, which is 10,050 feet high; Salt Lake City, Oakland, Fresno and then on to Glendale.

Mrs. Stearns, who was formerly Miss Cora Hickman of this city, says that she loves California none the less for her love for the east, but she would like to live near the state of Maine, as it is such a wonderful place.

Mr. and Mrs. Stearns are the guests of Mrs. Stearns' sister, Mrs. Adelaide Imler, 336 West Park avenue.

BADGERS CALLED

Monday evening, November 6th, is the date for the Wisconsin social reunion in Forum hall at Mercantile place. Col. Frank H. True, president, elected last month, will be in the chair and will provide a program of song, brief address, roll call of counties and prize presentation. Edward Moore, better known as "Scotty," will sing his delightful Scotch songs. Mrs. Gilbert and Mrs. Evans will give musical numbers. All the Badgers, including the visitors and tourists are urged to attend. Dancing will close the evening.

The worm usually turns after it is too late to make a getaway.

WASH KIDNEYS IF THEY HURT

Take Salts to flush kidneys if Back pains you or Bladder bothers.

Flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much meat and rich food may form uric acid, which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue coated and you feel that the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help subside these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acid in urine so it no longer irritates, thus often ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink—Adv.

CHIROPRACTORS ASK VOTES FOR NUMBER 16

"Every true Californian who believes in the American traditions of fair play and equality should vote 'yes' on Initiative Bill No. 16, which will be on the ballot on election day, November 7," said Dr. Frank Pyott of the California Chiropractors' Campaign Committee yesterday.

This bill is sponsored by the chiropractors of California and proposes to create a state board of Chiropractic. Examiners who will operate without expense to the taxpayers and will be entirely self-supporting. The measure would grant the board the power to issue licenses to chiropractors who have graduated from accredited colleges—and will remedy the apparent injustice practiced on the chiropractors by the state board of medical examiners.

"Americans maintain the inherent right to choose their own physicians, but the State Board of Medical Examiners has hampered the chiropractors in their great work of healing the sick," said Dr. Pyott. "The state has granted boards to dentists, druggists, veterinarians, medical graduates and others, but so far has failed to do the same for the chiropractors."

"Twenty-two states have already granted separate examining boards for the chiropractors. Bill Number 16 will remedy this manifest injustice, and permit the chiropractors to be governed by a board of their own and at no cost whatever to the taxpayers of the state."

OPEN NOSTRILS! END A COLD OR CATARRH

How To Get Relief When Head and Nose are Stuffed Up.

Count fifty! Your cold in head or catarrh disappears. Your clogged nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more snuffing, hawking, mucous discharge, dryness or headache; no struggling for breath at night.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist and apply a little of this fragrant antiseptic cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothing and healing the swollen or inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable. Relief is sure.—Adv.

INTERSECTIONAL GAMES SCHEDULED

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Football goes into the last stretch tomorrow with a day of rather mediocre games.

Most of the big variety eleven arranged contests for a breathing spell before the crowning games of the season.

Several interesting intersectional games are on the schedule. The south, which has been on a wholesale invasion of the east this year, provides two of the most attractive numbers of the card.

Florida engages Harvard at Cambridge and Alabama meets the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.

Another good intersectional combat will be staged between Nebraska, one of the leaders of the Missouri Valley conference, and Syracuse at Syracuse.

Nebraska cleaned up Pittsburgh last year and they come east highly touted again this year.

Washington and Jefferson and Lafayette will furnish the most important game of the day with a battle on the Polo grounds here.

Both teams went through an undefeated season last year and both ranked up high with the eastern leaders, as they promise to do again this year.

Another game that may have an important bearing on the award of the mythical eastern championship will be played at Annapolis between Penn State and the Navy. It is the hardest game on State's schedule and anything but the easiest on the midshipmen's card.

Cornell, striving to live up to the reputation of a "point a minute" eleven, plays Columbia at Ithaca. It is the first important game on Cornell's schedule, as Doble's men have been engaging "setups" all season.

Yale, beginning to point for the "Big Three" games, has anything but a pleasant task in playing Brown. When the game was arranged last fall the Providence eleven looked like it would be a nice workout for the Elis, but Brown turned out to be one of the biggest surprises of the year, with a great team.

Princeton, likewise, has a stiff opponent in Swarthmore, a team that always gives the Tigers trouble. Coming as the game does the week before the Harvard game, Princeton cannot afford to take any chances on injuries and it would be no surprise to see the Nassau team finish on the low end of the score.

Illinois and Northwestern and Minnesota and Wisconsin will provide the most important games in the Western conference. Notre Dame meets one of the conference members in a game with Indiana.

California has an important game with Washington State on the coast and the southern feature will be Centre against Kentucky and Georgia Tech against Clemson.

continue on your way if a black cat crosses in front of you. These omens and many more were as much a part of her education as reading, writing and arithmetic.

To break a mirror, take a seat at a table where there are thirteen present; step over a broom or walk under a ladder were signs of bad luck.

ATTRACTIVE INKWELL

An inkwell with a decidedly different air is in the shape of a seated Indian wrapped in deep meditation, and a gay blanket. The huge quilt that forms his head-dress is also a penholder.

"LADDER JINX" HAS SUPERSTITIOUS ACTRESS

Margaret Landis, heroine of "The Ladder Jinx," a Jess Robbins production, shown at the Glendale theater, was born in the south, and as a child was religiously taught to respect signs and omens by a colored mammy.

She knew that it was bad luck to view a new moon over the left shoulder; to take salt when it is handed to you; to pass on the opposite side of the tree when you are walking with someone, and

FURS FOR THE FAIR FOLKS THIS FALL

By HEDDA HOYT
(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—When old Noah set out on his life raft he took with him animals of every known species. But he had nothing on the fashionables who gathered at the polo games at Meadowbrook, Long Island, in October. They entered the grand stand carrying an assortment of pelts on their backs that Noah never heard of.

Besides a fair representation of skunks, monkeys, camels, leopards, raccoons and the regular run of domestic pelts there were many brilliantly dyed furs that kept one guessing as to their original owner. There was yellow monkey fur, used as a trimming on a yellow sport coat. A sport costume of dull pink material was collared with pink-dyed ermine. Blue foxes were abundant. A smart jacket of gray-dyed ermine had collar and cuffs of gray-dyed fox. Even the lovely rabbit was represented, but not in his original color scheme, you may be sure. His hide shone resplendent on the smart little white jackets that were worn over black velvet gowns.

All Wear Sport Costumes

The days when women appeared in fussy afternoon gowns carrying daily parasols to affairs that are held in the open are past. Nowadays the best dressed women wear sport costumes almost without exception, but these are not of the sweater and skirt variety by any means. Made on sport lines, they are elaborate creations embroidered in bewitching patterns or heavily fur trimmed.

The three-piece sport suit, consisting of a slip-on gown of knitted silk with a jacket of the same material, heavily encrusted with embroidery, was perhaps the most prominent model worn at the polo games, although many of the younger girls wore simple little gowns of silk jersey in pastel tones, such as Nile green and peach pink. In nearly every instance the hat matched the costume, with which it was worn. Hats were without doubt the most popular of the hat materials and they were trimmed with tall feathers of green parrot or peacock placed at one side and falling over the shoulder. Tan felt trapezoid, in peasant in the same manner were numerous worn with gowns of wood shades.

Green in that lovely new grass shade was quite noticeable and proved to be most becoming on the woman with light brown hair and fair coloring. One young Miss who looked particularly attractive wore a gown of dull green chambray cloth cut on long slender lines with a hat of green felt trimmed with the body of a small parrot with the tail feathers circling around her throat.

Coats of Vivid Plaid

Topcoats of vivid plaids also added a pleasant bit of coloring to the grand stands. One of the most attractive of these was a coat of green and tan plaid worn by a tall young matron who carried a vivid green cane, which was matched by a green felt sport hat. A black and white plaid top coat had its collar and cuffs edged with black and white monkey fur. Most of the topcoats are bloused low in back and are swathed across the front, fastening on one hip.

Another sport costume that is well worth mentioning was of white duvetyne in skirt and jacket effect which was worn with a perky little black velvet turban trimmed with a center cluster of white ermine tails.

Gloves were conspicuous by their absence at the polo events, although a few women were seen carrying them in their hands. Brown shoes worn with brown heather silk stockings clocked in heather were popular.

It was quite startling to see so many women with sun-tanned faces this late in the season, for usually by this time the bleaching process has been well on its way and the summer tan has been completely effaced. This year women evidently intend to carry their summer complexions far into the winter months. The dark Parisian makeup, however, has been completely abandoned by women of fashion.

Kidneys cause backache? Not Listen! Your backache is caused by lumbago, sciatica, or a strain, and the quickest relief is soothing, penetrating St. Jacob's Oil. Rub it right on your painful back, and instantly the soreness, stiffness and lameness disappears. Don't stay crippled! Get a small trial bottle of St. Jacob's Oil from your druggist and limber up. A moment after it is applied you'll wonder what became of the backache or lumbago pain.

Rub old, honest St. Jacob's Oil whenever you have sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism or sprains, as it is absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin.—Adv.

BUSINESS WOMEN'S CLUB HEARS FROM LEADERS

Distinguished women workers of Southern California spoke last night at the banquet of the Business Women's club at the Glen Inn.

Mrs. Kemper Campbell, introduced by Dr. Laura Brown as the chief speaker of the evening, discussed the finding of place in business or professional life.

Mrs. Campbell explained that her duties as a mother had prevented preparation and the concentration on her subject which she had hoped for, but instead of making excuses she would give "a simple message from my heart to your heart," which she proceeded to do. It was so fresh and unbacked, so personal, that she quite captivated her audience by her spontaneity.

She argued that the fear of one's employers, or fear of the future, may bring in the obstacle which prevents many women in business and the professions from living life to the full and having opportunity for "the great gesture." Referring to her own experience, she said: "I taught school for ten years and never liked it a day. I went into the law and liked it every day. As I look back now I see that I left the school room not because I did not like teaching children, but because I did not like the people over me. I was afraid of my principal, my supervisors, the board of education. What school teachers need is not more education, more training, but more fun. They need to run away more days and more summers. Too many people hamper their lives with the fear of not laying up enough money for old age."

It is Mrs. Campbell's belief that it is never too late to change your profession and succeed in another. "The real professions of life in which women are leaders, call for maturity and not high school children, and if you should want to be a lawyer or a doctor, remember that whatever you are doing now is excellent training. It is the mature woman and mature man who is going to do right and assist in their profession," she said.

Mrs. Campbell again stated, "I have been said by some women that being a woman handicaps them for a profession. But this is not so. The public, as a general rule, will put more confidence in a woman than in a man."

A fine talk was made by Miss Galpin on the waste which the business world now suffers by the unscientific methods of bringing employer and employee together, chiefly through the commercial bureau, which adequately serves neither party and which are reaping an unjustified profit from their misfits. She said: "When women have been given freedom enough for conquest these things which women do will be made part of their life careers instead of being made a job which one fears to lose."

She spoke of the work of the Women's Vocational Alliance, started by the Women's University club and backed by the federation and other groups, explaining the difference between its activities and other employment bureaus. "It is an attempt," she said, "to fit the best there is in business and the best there is in work, with training for services that will bring these two resources of humanity together."

Miss Galpin then introduced Miss Ethel Abbott, placement secretary of the Women's Vocational Alliance, whose headquarters are in the Delta building, Los Angeles. She gave an interesting account of the work she has been able to do in helping to raise the standard of workers, encouraging them to fit themselves for better work, and putting employers in touch with the kind of employees who will best meet their needs, a double service of incalculable worth. This talk closed the program of a highly successful function.

Original Suit Bids by Third or Fourth Hand

The requirements for an original bid of a suit by first or second hand are based on the fact that two quick tricks, such as A K, at the head of a five card suit, will average to produce four tricks with that suit as trump; that partner will average to hold three tricks and therefore the partnership seven tricks in the combined hands. In taking up original suit bids by third and fourth hands, a very different situation is presented. Third hand now knows that his partner hasn't a sound original bid and therefore must proceed with more caution than first hand in deciding upon an original bid. It certainly is not sound to bid at this point with only two quick tricks, the requirement for a first hand bid. The best practice is that third hand should not open the bidding at this point without at least one quick trick more than required for a first hand bid. The only exception to this occurs in hands where the quick trick strength is divided in at least three suits and then third hand may bid with but 2½ quick tricks. This is really not an exception for such hands are No Trump hands and the suit never is bid with such holdings unless they are major suits and then only when fairly strong. For that reason, this type of hand will be treated under No Trump bids by third and fourth hands. The following hands are illustrative of third hand suit bids:

William C. Doran, who is a candidate for judge of the Superior Court of this county, deserves support and votes at the polls on November 7th. His record in the district attorney's office, where for twelve years he was a deputy under civil service, and for five years as that time chief deputy district attorney, has received the commendation of the bench and bar far and wide. While in that responsible position he directed most of the important cases that Los Angeles county has had. Through all of his work he was fair to every man accused of crime and no one has ever been able to say that "Bill" Doran did anything that was not proper and just.

THREE BURBANK MERCHANTS

Large and Well Built, With Large Growth
on His Neck

Three alleged bad checks, which will probably amount to over $50, were passed in Burbank Saturday by a man who signed his name as S. H. Davis. The checks were made out on the Hibernian branch of the California bank.

A local haberdasher was one of the merchants who received a bad check. His check was made out to J. B. Russell and signed by S. H. Davis. It amounted to $16.60. The man bought a sweater and three pairs of socks at the clothing store.

The First National bank has received the other checks passed by the same man.

The local merchant says the man was tall and well built. He wore a blue serge suit and was very well dressed. The man had a large growth on his neck that looked like a boil. The man appeared to be about 30 years old.

The three victims of the forgery were notified of their loss yesterday when the First National bank received the checks yesterday.

INSIST ON ACCEPTANCE

Before Entering World
Court Wishes Attitude
UnderstoodBy A. L. BRADFORD
(Copyright, 1922, by United Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The United States intends to remain independent of the league of nations.

This is one of the prime considerations that this government has in mind as President Harding and Secretary Hughes are conducting negotiations designed to make America an official party to the permanent court of international justice, commonly known as the world court.

Before the United States will become a signatory power to the world court, Secretary Hughes must secure an agreement of the powers, members of the league of nations and the court to such conditions and modifications in the protocol of the court as will insure American independence of the league, it is believed in informed quarters here.

Even so, the negotiations which Washington has initiated for making the United States an official member of the world court are already being interpreted and probably will continue to do so, as at least a moral victory for the league of nations principle and as evidence of this country's relenting in its attitude of strict aloofness from the concert of nations represented in the league.

Even after an agreement may be reached with the other powers for the membership of the American government in the world court, the proposed adherence of the United States to the protocol of the court must be ratified by the senate, as is the case of any treaty arrangement. This, of course, is being taken fully into consideration by the president and Mr. Hughes.

It was not long after the Harding administration came into office that the question of the United States becoming a member of the world court came to the fore in the attention of Secretary Hughes. In answer to heckling from abroad because of alleged disregard of invitations for this country to become a member of the court, Hughes' attitude was explained as follows:

That while formal invitations had been received, this government could not take any action such as becoming a member of the international court unless it had treaty authorization from congress.

The world court is admittedly "a child" of the league of nations. Its creation was provided for by article 14 of the league covenant. The name league of nations is scattered throughout the text of the protocol of the court.

The judges of the court are elected by the council and assembly of the league.

The secret has long been out that Hughes favors the adherence of the United States to the world court in some form or another and it is confidently believed that he can secure an agreement on an arrangement to this end that will thoroughly protect the interests and policies of the government.

RAILROADS OPEN
ATTACK ON EIGHT
HOUR DAY

Chicago & Alton Asks Railroad Board to Modify Rules

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Railroads of the country today opened the battle for abolishment of the 8-hour day among train service employees with the filing of a petition before the United States railroad labor board by the Chicago and Alton, asking modification of working rules.

The Alton asked:
1.—Abolishment of time and one-half pay for overtime in road freight, transfer and hostler service.
2.—Extension of the time limit of service in short turn around passenger service from 8 to 10 hours.
3.—Extension of the work-day in outlying yards.

"This is the first step by the railroads to abolish or radically modify rules governing the working of train service employees," declared a statement made by engine and trainmen brotherhoods. "If the Alton's petition is granted, other roads can be expected to immediately take advantage of the opening."

"The Alton is picked to make the test case because it is in the hands of a receiver and the ability to pay has been a prime factor in previous decisions by the railroad labor board."

Railroad executives here would not comment on the Alton case, but admitted they were watching the outcome closely.

Railroad union leaders have long contended that as soon as the wage reduction and change in working rules of other classes of employees, such as the shopcrafts, maintenance of way workers, had been successfully put into effect, the railroads would concentrate on the trainmen's brotherhoods.

While individual railroads have filed similar petitions in the past before the board, they did not have the backing of all the lines, and indefinite postponements were granted in most cases.

A kindly old lady stooped over a reclining beggar and produced a penny. The beggar eyed it disdainfully.

"Ma'am," he began, "did you read in de paper about de beggar that died and left a million dollars to a lady dat give him a quarter?"

"I seem to remember something of the sort," replied the old lady, but—

"Well, dat guy was me brother. Dat's de kind of a family we are."

DYNAMITE SOUTHERN PACIFIC
FREIGHT TRAIN AT BURBANK;
ONE MAN TAKEN ON SUSPICION

Dynamiters attempted to wreck a Southern Pacific freight train Monday night at 10 o'clock, in the Burbank yards, and the explosion of the bomb which they fired wrecked homes for blocks around. Two refrigerator cars were partially wrecked, and a switch engine had to be sent from Los Angeles to aid in getting the cars on a siding.

Chief Cole, with two automobile loads of police officers, were at the scene of the explosion before the smoke had cleared, and took one man into custody, who, they said, acted suspiciously. The man was later released on his alibi.

Two Southern Pacific detectives came to Burbank yesterday and united with the local police in an effort to catch those guilty of the bombing.

Chief Cole and the two detectives believe that the job was done with a long time fuse, because no persons were seen running away from the scene of the explosion. The bomb had been placed on the bolster of the car. The local police visited a nearby "bo-camp" and thoroughly examined the men there, without avail.

Some damage was done to the Truths in Epigram

Age is a tyrant who forbids at the penalty of life, all the pleasure of youth.—La Fouchefoucauld (1613).

To know how to grow old is the master-work of wisdom, and one of the most difficult chapters in the great art of living.—Henri Frederic Amiel (1821-1881).

ORGANIZED "HOBOES"

There is said to have been a split in the national organization of hoboies. It seems that some delegates rode to the convention on upholstered seats. This act was construed as making aristocrats of them, and thus they lost the esteem of the considerable number who arrived balanced precariously on brakebeams. The split is not unique as a feature of conventions. Ordinarily the minority on the more turbulent side of the split withdraws far enough to hold a rump convention. After this both adjourn, and really nothing in particular seems to have happened.

It seems futile for the social units who term themselves hoboies to organize at all. An organization needs brains. The very fact that an individual is a hobo by choice, argues that he lacks brains. Thus handicapped, it is impossible for coherence to exist as between himself and others of his kind. If by circumstance thrust down to hobo level, the individual having any manhood about him begins to struggle upwards, making his own fight. He would be too wise to seek to carry with him all the riff-raff he found at the point to which he had descended inadvertently. Even if his temporary comrades desire to rise, the probabilities are that they want this excess to proceed without manual or other effort exerted by themselves. They are in a receptive rather than acquisitive frame of mind.

The hobo lacks initiative. He lacks propelling power. In other words, he is lazy. He never can get anywhere until ambition, awakening, urges him to cease being a hobo. In the meantime, the impromptu convention by the waterfront, where issues are discussed to the odor of mulligan stew, will be as important as any that he will attend.

CHANGES IN ITALY

There still is a king in Italy, but not by divine right. Victor remains on the throne because for the present the Fascisti desire him to remain. There has, then, been a revolution, not quite bloodless, and yet, considering its importance, comparatively free from violence. The leader of the Fascisti is Mussolini. He was sent for by the king to form a new government. It is not to be supposed that the king would have taken such course save in answer to necessity. Royalty, preserving appearances duly, has learned to take orders.

The difference between the Russian and Italian revolutions is marked, and the difference doubtless, will bring about an equally divergent result. In Russia the great middle class, the bourgeoisie, was eliminated from all consideration. Its members were not allowed to participate, and to their rights was given no consideration. The communists and anarchists who ruled had no thought of the welfare of any but themselves. In Italy it was precisely the element that bolshevists ignore that has seized power. The investigation was the selfishness, the stupidity, and the criminal trend of the men who, in Russia, would have been regarded as first class material.

Failure of the government of Italy to deal firmly with the outbreaks of anarchy, incited the Fascisti to undertake the task. They went at it without much preliminary waving of banners. The first the government knew about it, and the first that the turbulent anarchists knew, was that a new and powerful force had arisen. This force demanded reform in the monarchy, and with equal firmness it demanded a reform of the units of society inclined to riot. Mob rule, it decreed, must cease. Itself but a mob in one sense, it had the dignity of numbers, and the stabilizing influence of high purpose. So today the dominant factor in the affairs of Italy is the Fascisti. The change promises to be for the better. Mussolini expresses himself as a person of brains and character. He is in quest of peace at home and cordial relations abroad.

CHILDREN IN EUROPE

Returned travelers mention the sedulous care that Germany is bestowing on its children. The country may be hard pressed financially, and the little ones in their homes feel the touch of poverty, but the authorities are determined that each shall have the benefit of education. The process begins early. It includes conservation of health first of all. As indicating the prevailing spirit, in communities where there is scarcity of milk, the entire product is used for children.

In the preamble to the child welfare law passed by the reichstag is the statement that every German child is entitled to training for physical, mental and social efficiency. When the parents do not fulfill these obligations, the duty passes to the state. The fact readily to be seen, is that in its day of trouble, Germany looks to the morrow. The birthrate in Germany now is high. It so greatly exceeds the death rate that the gain in population is beyond precedent.

France is neglectful of the future. Doubtless the children are given loving care, but comparatively speaking, there are no children. Among the French the birth rate is far below the numerical loss by death. This is a singular condition, never yet sufficiently explained. The thrifty French could take care of large families. They prefer to have few children or to have none. The ultimate result may be figured in mere arithmetical terms. It is not to be supposed that the French nation is deliberately intent upon effacing itself, but it is engaged in precisely this process. No wisdom of diplomacy, no favor of patriotism, can cause it to continue to be a world power, if the paternal instinct is stifled. Unless there shall be a change, the France of today will be swept by an alien, not necessarily hostile, tide, because there will be no French to occupy it.

Attorney General Daugherty again informs the public that every one of the grafting war contractors is to be prosecuted. Delay is ascribed to the task of getting the necessary evidence. Meanwhile the years are passing, and soon the generation particularly interested in this subject, will be replaced by another, less acutely concerned.

People are requested by postmasters not to mail small cards and missives of greeting in diminutive envelopes. Letter mail is handled by certain mechanical appliances, and these odd-sized offerings do not fit. The result is that the clerks are delayed and mail mutilated. Often such pieces are lost owing to the likelihood of falling out of packages of mail of ordinary and proper proportions.

Facts on Reincarnation

By DR. FRANK CRANE

It is with pleasure that we find such a book as "Recurring Earth Lives," by F. Milton Willis, and discover that the author not only gives us the usual transcendental reflections, but actually gets down to cases and tells us precisely how and when certain persons have been reincarnated, and, also, just how long we are supposed to stay dead before our next incarnation takes place.

"Unskilled laborers" are due to rest up from sixty to one hundred years in the astral world, skilled labor from one hundred to two hundred, the bourgeoisie from two hundred to three hundred years, and so on up to "the highest class of gentlemen farmers, who take time to cultivate their minds and manners, and typical professional men interested almost exclusively in their professions," who must remain out of the picture from six hundred to one thousand years.

This is edifying, as it gives us something definite to go on and we can make our arrangements accordingly. Epictetus, who lived about A. D. 50, reappeared as Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Cicero came back as Gladstone.

The Prussians are reincarnations of the ancient Carthaginians and Phoenicians.

Julius Caesar did not seem to have much luck as he came out in an English family two or three decades ago and died as a boy. He came back according to schedule, but the earth was not quite ready for his abilities.

Ashoka Varahana, a king of India, who lived about 272 B. C., reappeared as Colonel Alcott, who was co-founder with Mm. Blavatsky of the theosophical society.

Hypatia of Alexandria has been back two centuries, first as Giordano Bruno, who was burned to death in 1600 and later as Mrs. Annis Bessant.

Alfred the Great made his appearance as Queen Victoria.

William the Conqueror had his second innings as Lord Kitchener.

Theodore Roosevelt appears to date back to a Chaldean king who flourished about 30,000 B. C. and is due to come again very shortly.

Virgil came out as Alfred Tennyson.

Francis Bacon of the seventeenth century, who was supposed to have written Shakespeare's plays in his spare moments, was formerly Robertus the monk in the sixteenth century. Hunyadi Janos in the fifteenth, and Christian Rosenkreuz, the founder of the Rosicrucian society, in the fourteenth, and several other interesting personages.

While our author does not say that Edgar Allan Poe is a reincarnation of Pythagoras he indicates that he came pretty near it, but that Pythagoras has really reappeared as the Master Koot Hoomi, or Keeper of the Records, who, together with Colonel Alcott and Mm. Blavatsky, founded the theosophical society. Hoomi, pardon the familiarity, is now using an Indian body and is living in Tibet, near Shigatse.

There have been those who are inclined to cast aspersions on the ecstasies because they were too indefinite. From now on they should be silent. Facts are facts.

Of course, some may question these assertions, but then the disbelievers and infidels are always with us.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

QUERIES

Austin T. Rogers, New Brighton, N. Y.: "During a discussion you were quoted as authority for the use of a plural verb with a collective noun. I insisted that it was incorrect to say 'Our firm have been manufacturers for twenty years,' and that 'Our firm has been manufacturing for twenty years' was proper. Inasmuch as collective nouns are modified by the singular pronoun 'this' and never by the plural 'these,' it seems rather ungrammatical to say 'This firm are' or 'This firm have.' Please tell me if I am wrong." Answer: It is correct to say "Our firm has been manufacturing for twenty years." If a collective noun calls for a plural verb, as often does, care should be used to form the right construction. The jury have been discussing the evidence; A crowd of men are pouring into the room; The pair were taken to the hospital. The plural verb is used only when the group are thought of as acting individually. On Oct. 7 many New York papers printed a headline similar to the following: "Family Dies in Canadian Fire." In this case the verb should have been plural; as, Family Die in Canadian Fire. In the foregoing query you should have written "that it is incorrect" and "is proper."

To a Spokane (Wash.) Reader: On Oct. 5 "The Right Word" published your query. To settle an argument please state the exact definition of the word. "What is three sixes and two more?" The answer of "The Right Word" was "Yes." The group of words had both subject and predicate, the essential requirements of a sentence, and, since you pinned the answer down to either "yes" or "no," the reply, although the sentence was ungrammatically written, had to be "yes." Later the sentence was corrected as follows: "Correctly written: To settle an argument please state 'Yes' or 'No' as to whether the following is a sentence: 'What are three sixes and two more?'"

"Aren't I?" Mrs. Charles Baskerville, New York City: "Please tell me in your 'The Right Word' what authority there is for the use of 'aren't I.' I find it in many English novels and I have a friend who persistently uses it." Answer: Aren't I is a contraction of are not I, which is very bad English. And I not is the proper construction.

THE LISTENING POST

A pretty good world. Lots of light and color and beauty and sometimes shadow and trouble. But there must be light and shadow. Even as there must be dark and light. Dusk as well as dawn. For if there were no dusk and night there could be no dawn and day.

We live by contrast a lot. High lights and low lights as in pictures. If all the world were of the same level. There could be no mountain peaks. No snow-capped crests. And no verdured valleys.

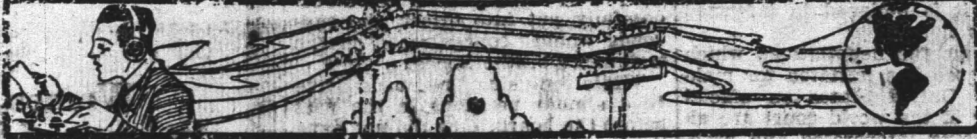

If there were a life of unclouded sun, there would be monotony. Nothing would grow without the showers. And how should we appreciate the cool and showery day if there had not been the hot and dusty one. Who would rejoice in shade if he had not traveled at the noon day.

Possibly the greatest joy of the world is success of pain. And yet it is not sensation but absence of sensation. The quiet of nerves that have quivered and jangled and suffered.

After the storm how blessed the calm. And yet what should be known of the grace and glory of the calm if there had not been the storm.

Who can delight in the beacon light on the shore if he has not been far from the shore in troubled waters.

Who but the mariner who has been on the reef almost can appreciate the calm and peace of the harbor waters.

Songs of the Poets

Affaire D'Amour—By Margaret Deland (1857—)

One pale November day,
Flying summer paused,
They say:
And growing bolder,
O'er rosy shoulder
Threw her lover such a glance
That Autumn's heart began to dance.
(O happy lover!)

A leafless peach-tree bled
Thought for him she smiled,
I'm told:
And, stirred by love,

His sleeping sap did move,
Decking each naked branch with green
To show her that her look was seen.
(Alas, poor lover!)

But summer, laughing, fled,
Nor knew he loved her!
Tis said
The peach-tree sighed,
And soon he gladly died:
And Autumn, weary of the chase,
Came on at Winter's sober page.
(O careless lover!)

MEASURING THE MILKY WAY

By ISABEL M. LEWIS of U. S. Naval Observatory

Is the Milky Way 40,000 or 300,000 light years in diameter? At present there is a division of opinion among astronomers on this question. The solution of the problem may be said to rest upon a determination of the nature, distribution and distance of spiral nebulae and globular star clusters.

Dr. Harlow Shapley, now director of the Harvard College Observatory, made an extensive study of globular star clusters a few years ago at Mt. Wilson. As a result of his researches he came to the conclusion that the globular star clusters are at enormous distances from the Milky Way and, since the sun, and its planet earth are in the Milky Way, they are correspondingly great distances from the earth.

The nearest globular star cluster, he found, was about 21,000 light years from the earth, the most distant, 220,000 light years. The nearest globular star cluster to the plane of the Milky Way was about 5,000 light years distant from it and none were to be found around its borders.

The most distant globular cluster was about 200,000 light years from the Milky Way. All globular star clusters, of which there were not over one hundred in the entire heavens, appeared to be systematically distributed in an approximately spherical form with respect to the Milky Way. The center of this system of globular star clusters lay in the Milky Way itself, about 50,000 light years from the solar system. There were about as many clusters above the plane of the Milky Way as there were below it. The Milky Way itself, a flattened, discoidal-shaped assemblage of stars, gaseous nebulae and coarse star clusters, was found to be 300,000 light years in extent along its greater axis, according to the results of Dr. Shapley's researches. Its heterogeneous mass of stars, nebulae and clusters resulted, possibly, from the disintegration of globular clusters that had changed to come within its limits.

The recent discovery on Harvard plates and on a photograph taken by Dr. Langford with the 40-inch reflector of the Powell Observatory, of a new globular star cluster gives even greater dimensions to this system of globular star clusters, according to Dr. Shapley's estimates. This newly-discovered cluster is in the constellation of Eridanus. It is the faintest known and also one of the most distant. It has been found to be 165,000 light years from the earth and 200,000 light years from the plane of the Milky Way and the center of the globular system. It is in a part of the sky opposite to that in which most of the globular clusters are found and the distance from this cluster to the most distant cluster in the opposite portion of the heavens is 350,000 light years. This greatly increases the known diameter of the system of globular clusters and the extent of the universe at right angles to the plane of the Milky Way.

The leading opponent of Dr. Shapley's views is probably Dr. Herbert D. Curtis, director of the Allegheny Observatory who has made a special study of spiral nebulae and who favors the more conservative dimensions of 30,000 or 40,000 light years for the Milky Way. Dr. Curtis is a strong supporter of the "island-universe" theory which considers the spiral nebulae as galaxies or island universes similar in form and dimensions to the Milky Way. Spiral nebulae as well as globular star clusters are known to be external to the Milky Way. There are known to be at least 700,000 of them within the reach of powerful telescopes. Dr. Shapley places them at approximately the same order of distances as the globular star clusters but according to Dr. Curtis' views the spirals must be, on the average, at least several millions of light years away.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

[Vancouver Sun]

A law once set down must be fully observed until it is replaced by another law quite as workable.

A law set aside temporarily is a law destroyed.

To pardon offenders, suspend laws and nullify decisions is to admit that the laws affected are not based upon necessity and an inherent righteousness; that they are, in fact, restrictive and vexatious. The law-giver of all beings must owe the law to the audience of all men should behave as though the law compelled.

Every citizen is a law-giver by the force of his vote. He must respect his own laws, for unless he does, they cannot in all justice be respected by the subnormal criminal intelligence they were made to control.

BY THE WAY, WHO IS HE?

Still we wonder what the British poet laureate has been doing in all the time during which he hasn't produced anything.

OBSERVED AT A GLANCE

By HENRY JAMES

The president of the New York School of Fine and Applied Arts has been attacking fashions. Laudable idea, but wholly futile effort.

A "seer" has been arrested for robbery. And he never had foreseen the coming of the copper.

Siberia has some expectation of being the seat of war, the last distinction that any country really desires.

Paris Temps is credited with asking: "Was the discovery of America really worth while to the human race?" The office idiot must have been in charge.

It must be a blow to the pride of Burch to discover that he no longer is a courtroom attraction.

It does not seem that the government should deny Shipbuilder Morse the vindication he asks, if he deserves it.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

The bunglesome and inept tactics used on behalf of "political" prisoners could have only one effect, if any. This would be to intensify prejudice against the prisoners. The spectacle of women picketing the President of the United States, dogging his footsteps to church, or country club, is disgusting. This is only one phase of it. It is indicative of a low order of mentality. It creates the impression that the prisoners are below the level of intelligence necessary to good citizenship, if they are to be judged by the agitators demanding their release.

People are not put into jail for their honest opinions. They are not put there because they express dissatisfaction with the government. They were not treated thus even in war time. They were arrested and confined for acts that had all the color of treason.

When the country harbors an enemy that seeks to overthrow it, not merely by talk, but by sinister activities, interference with the law, promotion of anarchy, of syndicalism, such enemy is subject, very properly, to seizure and penalty. He or she is a menace, possessing the potentiality of torch and bomb.

Enemies of this type were sent to prison. Some of them are there yet. If unrepentant they should be made to stay to the end of their terms.

The President had stated in a dignified fashion that each case would be looked into without prejudice and with particularity. Probably this has been done. If none was found worthy of release, why, none will be released.

Meanwhile the picketers face the single duty of going home and behaving themselves.

A man who had been accosted by a stranger, the latter asking as to the possibility of getting a drink, was quite indignant. He said he was an honest footpad, and did not propose to be classed with boot-leggers. Every calling seems to have professional pride. Having partly vindicated his reputation, the footpad robbed the stranger, completing the vindication, and went his way.

Traffic accidents are increasing right along according to the official figures of Los Angeles. This is despite countless appeals to drivers to be careful, at least to the extent of obeying rules. The heavy fines and jail sentences appear to be less effective than had been hoped. What is to be the solution of the problem nobody knows.

A girl at San Jose has received a verdict of $52,035 damages for the loss of a leg and for other injuries. She had been run over by a drunken driver who is now in San Quentin prison. Fortunately the financial penalty has a meaning, for the prisoner is rich. In this one instance, at least, the failure of money to exercise any pull was complete.

This time it is an Oregon bishop who has taken a whack at the morals of this country. As is not unusual perhaps to a person in his position, he reads the most distressing signs of decadence in the frequency of divorce. This opens the door to endless, and therefore quite ineffective discussion. If debaters can't get anywhere they might as well refrain from starting.

It seems almost certain that an American relief worker has been murdered in Russia. Such a crime must be regarded as peculiarly atrocious. There is not a Russian but should feel an impulse of kinship to the victim, who was a charity worker. If there has been murder, however, there does not seem to be anything to be done about it. There is no Russian government with which to deal, and in that country law seems not to prevail.

There is bound to be much interest in the marriage of the ex-killer. Of course, albeit the occasion may be marked by august ceremony, there must be much pretense about it. Wilhelm will be married under a title to which he has no claim. The bride will be given, on the wedding stationery, the same standing as though she had married a king. There is nothing to prevent Wilhelm's calling himself anything that pleases him, but his humors will not change his real status. It involves the principle of calling a cow's tail a leg, and then asking as to the number of legs a cow possesses. The correct answer is four.

The story comes out that the ex-killer is poor. In token of this his gifts to the bride cost only 800,000,000 marks. The prospective bride implies that her motive in marrying is sympathy for a worthy old man in trouble. She says he is the best-hearted and most generous person she knows. That is exactly the way for a bride to feel.

The Fascisti of Italy all wear black shirts. These are not only striking, but if the wearer so desires, there may be long intervals between the trips of the garments to the laundry. The purpose of these wearers of black is not hidden, and the costume is not designed as a disguise. In these respects it is far ahead of the white sheets of American midnight marauders.

A man already under sentence of life imprisonment broke out of jail recently, and is now to be tried for the second offense. There does not appear any reason for this. While a man is engaged in serving one life term, his discomfort is not increased by the infliction of any number of minor terms. They are all bound to run concurrently with the principal term.

An astonishing number of ministers have appeared lately in criminal episodes. At least so it seems until a list of the episodes is made. Then the total is found to be very small.

The false impression perhaps arises from the fact that when a minister steps aside from his path of rectitude, his conduct becomes spectacular from the circumstance of his calling.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

My mother used to say that I had no small talk. Confound it, she should have seen to it that I got some, if she had to send me to a small talk school. There are mighty few things as important in this life as the ability to keep the conversational ball rolling. Sooner or later it may drop into a lucky pocket.

"Have you heard—?" asked Freddie Squeers last night at the Rialington dinner.

Most of us were—I speak in angry candor—dead ones at the Rialington dinner. That is, we were dead socially. Each of us could keep up our end in business. Any one who comes on a skinning journey had best keep away from the Rialington guest list if he doesn't want to find himself skinned—which is a musical defiance of grammar. Each of us knows more about almost any important thing in the world than Freddie Squeers. But, dam it, what we know seems to have no conversational value. People do not want to listen to what we know. But they lean forward bright-eyed when Freddie Squeers says:

"They tell me—"

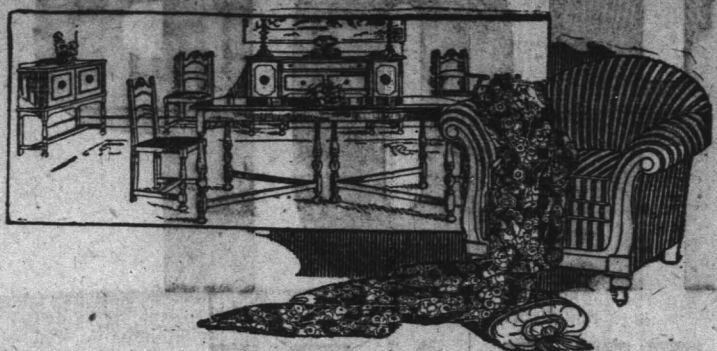

Freddie began to this town ten years ago with nothing more than a bright, if somewhat shallow, intellect and a couple of suits of good clothes. But he was always able to hurl himself into the breach of talk. If one of those deadly moments came when all of us heavy and important but somewhat uninteresting persons stopped talking at once—so that the hostess looked down the line with a sort of an om-y-soul-sake expression on her face—it was Freddie who hurried in.

"That reminds me—"

I have never heard Freddie say an unkind thing or a valuable one. But he seems to study to be interesting. I would not say that he has a list of topics on his cuff, but I suspect him of keeping a few references in his vest pocket.

And, I'll give you my word, I know of no other reason for his success in our town. He is a very moderate business man, he has no capital to speak of, and no important connections. But his talent for small talk made him a somebody fifteen years ago.

I have no small talk, as my mother very justly observed. But I'll swap a ton of the heavy talk I have for a feather-weight of Freddie's sort.

view of the mountains, the fact that it adjoins the City Park at Patterson, the

Trend of Fashion

By HELEN MERRILL EMERY

Of all the frocks which fashion has offered for the new season, none are lovelier than those of metal lace whose frosty silverness and golden glitter have a brilliancy that is intensely flattering.Made entirely of lace, or of lace combined with shimmering metal cloth, these frocks are among the most successful of the new models and are ideal for dance dresses and dinner gowns.Several of the smartest reveal a silhouette that is distinctly different. It consists of a long, tight-fitted waist almost like a basque and attached to this, a little below the hips, is a circular skirt. ThisYouthful Charm is Revealed in a Frock of Silver Laceis frequently of lace flouncing while the upper part of the frock is made of allover metal lace. On a particularly attractive dress the sash is formed by two, inch-wide bands of rose color velvet ribbon separated by about four inches. At the left side the ribbons are tied in a double knot and on the right side they are held in place with a circular ornament made of velvet and silver flowers massed closely together.Wide black velvet ribbon is used with striking effect on another model also of silver lace. In this dress three panels of velvet extend down the front, the center panel reaching about two inches lower than each of the others. A noticeable feature of this model is an exceedingly handsome belt of silver caught at intervals with oval ornaments.A silver lace evening dress designed for a young actress is shown in the accompanying sketch. The skirt of flouncing is cut to fall lower on the sides and is long and full. On the waist deep points extend up over a foundation of cloth of silver. The belt and ornaments are of turquoise blue velvet ribbon.COTTON PRODUCED IN 1921

If ever there was a Godly man, it was the late lamented Congressman-elect Charles F. Van de Water, an honored and beloved member of the M. E. Church. And yet this same slimy lie was used against him, in the charge that he had a $50,000 slush fund from the wet interests. The answer to this slander was 27,000 majority against Randall. Now, the same base tactics are being used against Major Lineberger. Will the voters of the Ninth Congressional District stand by Congressman Lineberger as they did our lamented friend, Van de Water?

THE SOUP THAT CURDLED

Mary Ellen could make fudge and Turkish delight and sandwiches, but every time she made tomato soup it curdled.

And every time she made a custard it was porous, like a sponge, and very watery.

And when she tried to broil steak it was all wrong. Almost always she had to scrape the burnt spots off the toast she made and cover the blackened parts with butter and sugar and cinnamon.

These little tragedies were all due to the fact that Mary Ellen never paid a great deal of attention to the things she was doing, but allowed her mind to wander from toast to tray cloths and from soup to soup spoons, as she went about the kitchen.

When Mary Ellen's father was ill he wanted tomato soup, and because Mary Ellen had gone to cooking school her mother sent her downstairs to make the soup while she made the sick man's bed all over again and brushed his hair and held the basin for him while he brushed his teeth.

Mary Ellen's Soup Curdled. And the soup curdled. And Mary Ellen threw it down the sink and made some more. And it curdled!

So her mother, wondering at the delay, hurried down to the kitchen, took one look at the sink, the stove, and the saucepan, and said, "Oh, my dear!" in that gently protesting way mothers have.

Then she proceeded to show Mary Ellen how to make the tomato soup her father liked—the kind that does not curdle.

"You blended the milk and the tomatoes too suddenly, or you forgot the soda, or you didn't allow the soda to react sufficiently before you blended the two," explained Mary Ellen's mother, measuring a cup of milk into a double boiler and putting it on the stove to heat.

Mary Ellen was silent. She did not like to admit that she had jumbled all the ingredients into one saucepan in order to save time.

Care Necessary in Blending. Mary Ellen's mother measured one-half cup of canned tomatoes into a pan and stewed them gently for a few minutes.

Then she strained the tomatoes, and to the hot juice added one-eighth of a salt spoon of baking soda. The tomato juice foamed up, and she set it aside until the effervescence subsided.

The milk being hot, a tablespoon of butter was added to it, and it was made into a thin cream sauce by the addition of three-quarters of a tablespoon of cornstarch mixed with cool milk and added slowly. A velvety smooth cream-sauce resulted.

A pinch of salt was added. Then the tomato juice, from which all the acidity had escaped, was blended with the cream sauce.

A perfect tomato bisque was the result of the careful blending of the two liquids.

"The secret of soup that does not curdle," said Mary Ellen's mother, "is one-half soda and the other half carefulness in blending."

With enough push a man will manage to pull through.

HERE I AM! ASK ME!

The Glendale Daily Press has arranged to present a series of articles which begin today, giving information concerning the Boy Scouts of America and of the Verdugo Hills District Council, which includes the cities and communities of Glendale, Burbank, Roscoe, Sunland, Tujunga, La Grange, Montrose, Casa Verdugo and Eagle Rock. Look for these articles if you want to know the facts.

By HAROLD F. BENNER,
Scout Executive, Verdugo Hills
District Council, B. S. A.

SCOUTS TAKE THIS OATH, LEARN THIS LAW, AND KEEP IT

The gist of all we have been saying in these articles and all we will say in succeeding ones is contained in what a Boy Scout does. All that the Scout does hinges back into this oath that he takes and the Law he pledges to obey.

ONE HUNDRED AND EIGHTY BOYS IN THE VERDUGO HILLS DISTRICT ARE SCOUTS

Every one of these boys has taken the Scout oath and is living under the Scout law. When you have read it you will be in a position to judge what the moral effect in this district is of such a group of boys in such a movement. Here it is:

THE SCOUT OATH AND LAW
As a Scout the boy willingly adopts as real and vital the universally accepted principles of life set forth in the Scout oath and law.

THE SCOUT OATH
On my honor, I will do my best:
1. To do my duty to God and my country, and to obey the Scout law.

2. To help other people at all times.

3. To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight.

THE SCOUT LAW

1. A SCOUT IS TRUSTWORTHY—A Scout's honor is to be trusted. If he were to violate his honor by telling a lie, or by cheating, or by not doing exactly a given task, he would lose his honor, he may be directed to hand over his Scout badge.

2. A SCOUT IS LOYAL—He is loyal to all to whom loyalty is due; his Scout leader, his home, and parents and country.

3. A SCOUT IS HELPFUL—He must be prepared at any time to save life, help injured persons, and share the home duties. He must do at least one good turn to somebody every day.

4. A SCOUT IS FRIENDLY—He is a friend to all and a brother to every other Scout.

5. A SCOUT IS COURTEOUS—He is polite to all, especially to women, children, old people, and the weak and helpless. He must not take pay for being helpful and courteous.

6. A SCOUT IS KIND—He is a friend to animals. He will not kill nor hurt any living creature needlessly, but will strive to save and protect all harmless life.

7. A SCOUT IS OBEIENT—He obeys his parents, Scoutmaster, patrol leader, and all other duly constituted authorities.

8. A SCOUT IS CHEERFUL—He smiles wherever he can. His obedience to orders is prompt and cheerful. He never shirks nor grumbles at hardship.

9. A SCOUT IS THRIFTY—He does not wantonly destroy property. He works faithfully, wastes nothing, and makes the best use of his opportunities. He saves his money so that he may pay his way, be generous to those in need, and helpful to worthy objects. He may work for pay, but he must not receive tips nor courtesies or good turns.

10. A SCOUT IS BRAVE—He has the courage to face danger in spite of fear, and has to stand up for the right against the coaxing of friends or the fears or threats of enemies, and defeat does not down him.

11. A SCOUT IS CLEAN—He keeps clean in body and thought, stands for clean speech, clean sport, clean habits, and travels with a clean crowd.

12. A SCOUT IS REVERENT—He is reverent toward God. He is faithful to his religious duties and respects the convictions of others in matters of custom and religion.

(To be continued in next Friday's Daily Press)

THE DAILY PRESS has frequently endorsed the Boy Scout Movement, congratulated the leaders of it in the Verdugo Hills District on the remarkable development of the work here in the last year, and called the attention of our citizens to the local and national importance of it. The DAILY PRESS desires to see Glendale and the Verdugo Hills District the first city and territory of its size in America in the work of the Boy Scouts. If any citizen has any question to ask it will be answered by the local scout executive who is preparing these articles. Call for Harold Benner at Glendale 2205-R or address the district office, 108 N. Brand Boulevard, Glendale, California.

There appeared in an Alabama court a negro to whom the thing was a new experience. He was, however, unabashed, and wore the air of a man determined not to "get the worst of it."

"Prisoner at the bar," called out the clerk, "do you wish to challenge any of the jury?"
"Well, Ah tell you," he replied, after looking at the men in the box over very carefully, "Ah'm not 'actly in trainin', but Ah think Ah could pull off a round or two wit' dat fat of boy in the corner."

A resident of London was traveling in America when he fell into conversation with a waiter who had been a Sammy in France during the war.

"Have you any pleasant memories of France?" he asked.

"Oh, rather!" answered the ex-Sammy.

"What did you enjoy most in France?" continued the inquirer.

"Well, I guess it was the French peasants singing the 'Mayonnaise,'" replied the waiter.

COTTAGE PIE
Two cups mashed potatoes, one egg (may be omitted), two cups left-over meat (ground), two cups gravy or brown sauce, one small onion (chopped), one teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one tablespoon green pepper (chopped).

THE CONQUEST

One more effort, the race is won.
One more struggle, the thing is done.
One more moment, there comes the dawn.
One more trial, the night is gone.
Patience, patience, my little soul,
The broken vase will again be whole.
The voice of sorrow be stilled and dumb.
And the glad, glad song to the heart will come.

One more step and the goal is ours,
One more day and the budding flowers
Will bloom and blossom and fill the air
With joy and color and fragrance fair.
The way seems long and the dust is deep
And the eyes are heavy and long for sleep.
But, Heart of Mine, we will have good cheer,
For one more smile and the rest is near.

One more hope and the buds will bloom,
One more ray, and the end of gloom.
One more deed and the duty is done,
The flag held high and the battle won.
So, up my spirit, be up and on
Till the dawn has come and the night is gone,
And the crown be won and the song shall be,
And the struggle shall end with victory.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE EX-KAISER'S MEMOIRS

CHAPTER XIV—The Plot Thickens

I have cited much evidence indicating that the war was started against the wishes of Germany and by trouble-seeking neighboring nations that were annoyed that we were so peaceful and retiring by nature. These other nations were driven to the war, I have recently been informed, by a great plot of secret societies, Greek letter chapters, and fraternal organizations. The Grand Lodge of Masons, if my information is correct, had much to do with bringing on the war. I also suspect the Elks, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Eagles, Order of Redmen, Woodmen of the World, and the Lady Macabees. My recent hatchet activities in Holland qualified me as a member of the Woodmen and I attended several lodge meetings in search of supporting evidence.

I might add that I suspect the Knights of Columbus, too. I have heard on reliable authority that there were thousands of them in France during the war.

My informant in all these cases was a member of the Loyal Order of Moose who was thrown out of his lodge for non-payment of dues and general undesirability. Still, I cite the allegations for what they may be worth. They may not be worth much, but the same can be said of all my other allegations.

CHAPTER XV

Trying to Do the Pope a Good Turn

On several occasions, after it had become plain as the nose on my face (even plainer) that Germany could not win the war, I considered influencing the Vatican to intercede. In the early part of 1918 I was visited by a Papal Nuncio and chaplain at my headquarters. The Nuncio explained that the Vatican was very anxious to see an end of the terrible slaughter and hoped I would give support to any peace movement.

I told the Nuncio that the thing for the Pope to do was to issue an order instructing all priests to cease criticizing the Germans and to urge all people to be gentle, sweet and loving like me. The Nuncio laughed himself sick, and it was some time before we could resume our talk. This has always puzzled me.

I suggested that the Pope try to get Italy to desert the allies. The Nuncio assured me this could not be done, and stated that any such attempt would lead to an uprising against the Vatican. Striking one of my favorite attitudes, I then told him that the Pope should know no such word as fear, and should welcome martyrdom. I added that by accepting martyrdom he would be doing me a personal favor.

The Nuncio burst into another fit of laughing. He was a very strange fellow. I never have been able to understand his actions on that occasion.

CHAPTER XVI

I See My Finish

In August, 1918, I began to suspect that we were not winning the world series and summoned a clown council. I felt quite positive that it was my turn to look about and choose the nearest exit.

My army had been put in a very serious position by the duplicity of Austria. Vienna had been trying to make a separate peace. This amounted to giving me what might be called the Vienna Roll.

I summoned General Ludendorff to headquarters. Every day I had been reading war dispatches telling how Ludendorff had eluded the allied armies. It was getting so people were calling him "Old General Eludendorff." I could not help noticing that every time he eluded somebody he was twenty miles nearer the German border. I asked Ludendorff frankly what the situation was, and he told me that victory was no longer possible and that we had been kidding ourselves long enough. His exact words, if I recall them, were:

"My men don't wanta play no more. We gotta pick some new game or they'll go home and leave us flat."

"Where is our army now?" I asked.

"About a mile and a half away," he replied.

"Is it closely pressed?" I inquired.

"We have been running so fast it will take weeks for the allies to catch up with us," he assured me.

"There is no foes within fifty miles."

"You are quite sure?" I asked.

"Positively, excellency," he replied, parting his hair with his sword.

"Then," I answered in a deep voice, "I am resolved to go to the front and join my men in their hour of danger!"

This caused some surprise, but I was unwavering. I desired to be with my hard-fighting troops now

STINNES ENTERING RUSSIA

MOSCOW.—Hugo Stinnes, the spectacular German industrial prince is preparing for a peaceful invasion of Russia by means of thirty correspondents of the Telegraph Union of which Stinnes holds a majority of stock. The plan contemplates placing a correspondent in every important Russian center to submit regular reports on the economic and industrial situation in their respective districts. This would indicate that the Stinnes group intends to force itself into Russian trade at the earliest opportunity.

BRAZIL

The area of Brazil is more than 3,250,000 square miles, larger than the continental area of the United States. According to the census taken about two years ago the population is about 30,500,000.

COST OF COAL STRIKE

For the whole country has been estimated at from $500,000,000 to $750,000,000.

that there was to be no more hard fighting.

"The German emperor belongs to his soldiers," I declared, speaking so the phonographs would record it.

My soldiers heard this and replied that they did not want me. The revolutionists replied, after the manner of David Warfield, "If you don't want him, we want him." As the retreat was continuing and as I realized the front would come to me if I did not get to the front first I set out at once.

Most of the soldiers greeted me with great enthusiasm. I received enough tomatoes to make five barrels of Grade A catsup.

VOTE "NO" ON No. 24

ONE REASON

Your banker, realtor, tax expert and business friend today can advise you as to your rights under notes, mortgages, leases, bills of sale, bank accounts, income tax returns, joint tenancies, etc. The Bar Association says this is practicing law.

Vote "No" on Number 24

BECAUSE

The Lawyers' Bill (No. 24) forces the public to pay more lawyers' fees.

The bankers and business men of California are willing to continue their practice of giving you simple legal advice in your business affairs.

This Bill would stop this and add expense to you by forcing you to consult lawyers.

This Bill makes a crime of a service to the public, and prevents the people from receiving it.

This Bill was devised by lawyers to benefit lawyers. People have long been accustomed freely to consult their business friends on business law as they require it.

ANOTHER REASON

Do you want to be deprived from receiving this service when you ask for it? Your vote "No" on Proposition No. 24 means that you may retain this service freely. Your vote for No. 24 will mean to you added expense, inconvenience, and will send your business friend to jail for serving you at your own request.
